INCUMBENT TRUSTEES RETURNED TO OFFICE

Voters of Daly City, at the polls Monday, expressed their approval of the conduct of municipal affairs by the present officials, when by a substantial majority T. P. Moran, T. F. O'Rourke and H. H. Smith were re-elected as trustees of the city of Daly City.

While the vote cast on Monday was not as heavy as might have been expected had there been more of a contest, a goodly number called at the different polling places and registered their choice for trustees for the ensuing term.

Of the three trustees chosen, T. P. Moran received the highest vote, 787 votes being cast in his favor. H. H. Smith followed, with 776, while 744 votes were cast for T. F. O'Rourke. Phillip Ross received a total of 380. Moran's highest vote was in the Second precinct, O'Rourke's in the Second precinct, and Smith's in the Fifth precinct, while Ross' greatest strength developed in the First precinct.

The following shows the vote cast:

	Moran	O'Rourke	Ross	Smith
First Precinct...	179	153	95	162
Second Precinct...	180	162	80	159
Third Precinct...	144	144	48	156
Fourth Precinct...	121	126	64	126
Fifth Precinct...	163	159	93	173
Total	787	744	380	776

The three members of the board who went before the voters for reelection made their campaign upon their records during their terms of office, and that their actions of the past has met with the approval of the citizens of Daly City was indicated by the vote of confidence at the polls last Monday.

Daly City is progressing in a most satisfactory manner, and it is expected that the newly elected city trustees will in the future, as in the past, do everything in their power to advance the interests of this city in every way possible.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS THROUGHOUT COUNTY

The people of San Mateo county municipalities went to the polls on Monday and expressed their opinion on candidates, bond elections and other propositions referred to them through the ballot.

One of the hottest campaigns was waged at San Bruno, where one of the surprises was the election of Wm. C. Bunker as city trustee, he leading the field of eleven candidates. Dr. F. Holmes Smith was the only incumbent returned to office, Trustees Emil Walter and George Edwards being defeated. Fred Nissits was the second best candidate.

In South San Francisco, Trustees A. Cunningham and Al Eschebeck were returned to office, Harry Cassa being defeated. Cunningham and Eschebeck had the support of the so-called "recall forces." The voters, on a referendum, approved a purchase an operation of the water works by the city. A proposition for a 30 cent tax to improve the Civic center failed to secure the needed two-thirds majority.

In Burlingame, C. A. Buck led the field and was elected. Clark T. Henderson, his running mate, was defeated by Rockwell Stone, who led the Good Government League candidate 400 votes. City Treasurer Frank Bloom was given a close race by Phil Anderson. All bond and zoning propositions placed before the voters were defeated.

The Progressive Club's ticket in San Carlos swamped the opposition, five candidates backed by that organization winning out by safe margins.

In Redwood City there was a surprise in the defeat of Mark Ryan, a former trustee and former mayor, by Dearborn, who was a close runner to Mayor Henry Beecher. The issue for the extension of Broadway was beaten by only 31 votes, and a bond issue for the improvement of the city hall was 188 votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Eschborough's four incumbents on the ballots were voted back into office without opposition, and only four in-votes menaced the incumbents at Atherton.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the voters of Daly City our thanks and appreciation for their confidence, as expressed at the polls last Monday, in the official acts of the Board of Trustees. T. P. MORAN.
T. F. O'ROURKE.
H. H. SMITH.

CITY TRUSTEES APPROVE BONDS FOR STREET WORK

At a meeting of the Daly City board of trustees, held last Tuesday evening, Resolution No. 31, confirming the assessment for street work on Bellevue avenue, between Whittier and Templeton, was introduced and approved.

Resolution of Intention No. 27, providing for the issuance of bonds for street work on the west side of Mission street between San Jose avenue and the county line and on Liebig street, was introduced and passed. This work was done about a year ago.

The board adjourned to meet again at a special meeting next Monday evening. At this time the re-elected members of the board, Messrs. T. P. Moran, T. F. O'Rourke and H. H. Smith, will be again inducted into office. At this time appointive offices will be filled.

WELL KNOWN WOMAN IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary MacNamara, of 6627 Mission street, died Sunday morning after a brief illness. The funeral took place Monday at 8:45 a. m., from the new mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., funeral directors. There was a mass at 9 a. m., in St. Maximus church. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

The deceased was 70 years of age and had lived for a number of years in Daly City. She will be remembered by many as the kindly Mrs. MacNamara of the Daly City Gift Shop. Her passing will bring sorrow to a large circle of friends, and to her husband, J. B. MacNamara, goes out the sympathy of the community.

DEATH OF ANDREW J. MCPIKE

Andrew J. McPike, brother of Attorney H. H. McPike, of San Francisco, died last Saturday at the Morton hospital, San Francisco, following a sudden illness. He was a publicity worker for a San Francisco newspaper. The funeral was held Monday at 10:30 from the parlors of W. C. Lasswell & Co., funeral directors. Christian Science services were held. Entombment was in a family vault in the Masonic cemetery, Vallejo, at 2:30 p. m.

SCHOOL ANNUAL ON MAY 21

It is announced that Jefferson Spirit, the Jefferson Union high school annual, will be ready for distribution on May 21, the day of the school exhibit. These books are sold by subscription, and all who desire them should place their orders at once, as only books enough to supply the advance demand will be ordered, it is understood.

ATTORNEY ADMITS LOSING FORTUNE IN GAMBLING

Baldwin Wood, San Francisco attorney and clubman, who disappeared about two weeks ago, supposedly taking with him the bulk of a family fortune of $400,000, has been found. In a cottage at a health resort near San Francisco he was confronted on Tuesday with his wife, her attorney, a private detective and two newspaper men. Wood, according to the story published in the Examiner, displayed a wallet containing $111.

"It's all gone, every cent, except this, all lost in stock gambling," he is quoted as saying. "I tried to recoup. I took everything. I borrowed. At last it was all gone."

LEGION WILL BROADCAST MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM

Arrangements have been made by Jack Huston, chairman of the American Legion's state committee on publicity, to broadcast over station KPO, San Francisco, the Memorial day program which the San Francisco Posts of the organization are to participate in, May 31.

Youths Charged With Auto Theft

Three 14-year-old San Francisco boys, Elmer Schaible, John McQuillan and Harry Halprey, were arrested at Salinas last Monday on information furnished by Sheriff T. C. McGovern, and are charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Phil Demartini of Rockaway Beach. The lads were taken to the Juvenile Home in San Francisco.

Officer Rewarded for Bravery

Officer Sylvester Douglass, of the Redwood City police department, has received a check in the sum of $100 from the Standard Oil Company, in recognition of his bravery in risking his life in ending the career of the oil station bandit, Melvin McCray, who had been terrorizing the cities of the peninsula for several months.

SURPRISE MILK TEST SHOWS 94.1 AVERAGE

The value to the public of regular and efficient milk inspection has been again demonstrated as a result of a surprise milk scoring contest on the San Mateo county milk supply, conducted by representatives of the state bureau of dairy control, Sacramento.

The average San Mateo county milk rating at this time was found to be 94.1 per cent, computed on a quality basis, which is the highest ever secured by the local inspecting department, being 2.1 per cent higher than the previous contest.

This high standard was secured through the efforts of the county milk inspection department, supervised by Dr. F. H. Smith, health officer, and J. J. Garland, county milk inspector, together with the co-operation of the local milk dealers.

SECOND INSTALLMENT OF TAXES NOW DUE

The old saying that but two things are sure, death and taxes, is brought forcibly to mind to taxpayers these days, and the wise property owners are making preparations to pay their taxes.

County Tax Collector A. McSweeney announces that the second installment of county taxes will be due on Monday, April 26th, and it behooves all taxpayers to take notice of this fact and be prepared to meet their obligations at this time.

VANDALS FORCE WAY INTO HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

By smashing in several windows on the west side of the building, vandals forced an entrance to the Jefferson Union high school Thursday evening of last week, ransacked the rooms and attempted to enter the safe. Nearly all of the rooms had been rifled, but nothing of value was taken. Considerable damage was done when the intruders unsuccessfully tried to gain entrance to the safe. Local officers are investigating the case, and it is hoped the guilty parties will be captured.

PESCADERO MERCHANTS REBUILDING BURNED STORES

J. C. Williamson, the pioneer merchant, who has been in business at Pescadero since 1885, has started the work of rebuilding his store, which was destroyed at the time of the big fire a few weeks ago. The fire swept nearly the whole business section of Pescadero and did damage of over $125,000. Other merchants of Pescadero are also rebuilding, and it is expected that the town will soon be back to normal again.

PROVIDES FUND TO SECURE NEW ROAD

At the meeting of the San Mateo county board of supervisors at Redwood City last Monday, the board authorized the expenditure of $500 to locate original owners of the right-of-way now held by the Ocean Shore railroad. This is the first definite step toward construction of a modern automobile highway over the defunct railroad's right-of-way. This movement for a highway over the old roadbed has been under way for some time.

The $300,000 bond issue recently voted by the San Mateo Union high school district brought a premium of $13,661 when offered for sale Monday by the board of supervisors. This premium was offered in a joint bid submitted by the Bank of Italy and Blythe, Witter & Co. The bids were accepted.

The $300,000 bonds approved by the San Mateo Junior College district will not be offered for sale until such a time as the high school district is ready to turn its local plant over for use as a junior college, thus saving money on bond interest.

The board of supervisors accepted a map of Devonshire Subdivision No. 4, submitted by the Municipal Properties Company.

Bids for repair of the La Honda road from San Gregorio to the Third township line and of Hillsdale boulevard in the First Township were called. The bids will be open May 1.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS STAGE COMEDY SUCCESS

"Thirty-five laughs in as many minutes," explained a stage hand in commenting on the success of the faculty play, "Lotus Flowers," given last Friday night at the Jefferson Union high school by members of the faculty.

The plot of the story was how Madame Valeria, a medium, played by Miss Torello, had great power over Miss Potter and Miss Albushie, the wives of Allan Drake and Jack Durkin, played by Mr. Best and Mr. Cooley.

And Helga, the comical maid, was excellently portrayed by Miss Robinson.

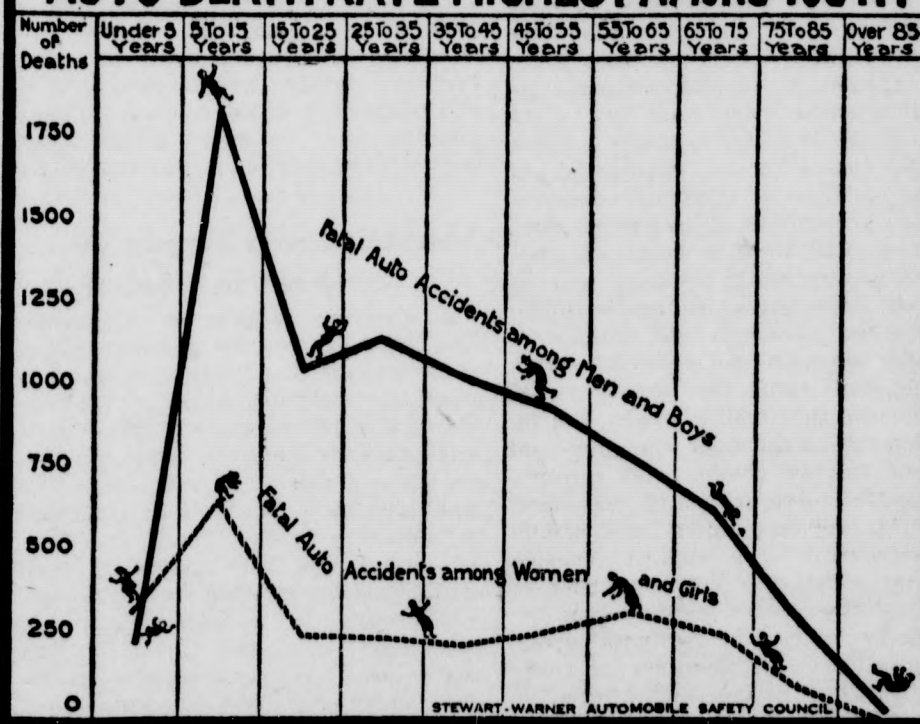

The smooth acting and easy portrayal was a result of the genius of Miss Dannenbaum, dramatics director. As an added attraction, "Helen's Babies," with Baby Peggy, furnished a laughable exposition on the way most men handle children.

Frank Marshall Dies at Burlingame

Frank Marshall, superintendent of Burlingame's municipal water works since its purchase by the city in 1914, passed away Tuesday night at his home in Burlingame. Marshall had been a resident of Burlingame for nearly a quarter of a century. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter.

Youth of Nation Tops Death List in U. S. Auto Fatalities

AUTO DEATH RATE HIGHEST AMONG YOUTH

YOUTH pays the heaviest toll in annual automobile fatalities. From five to fifteen years is the period when the greatest number of fatal accidents occur, for both sexes. The chart shows the age distribution of automobile deaths for men and women as given in the latest mortality figures prepared by the government. These figures, says the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, emphasize the need for more playgrounds and increased safety education among school children.

Complete statistics are not possible, as only 85 per cent of the United States keeps mortality records. About 22,000 a year is generally conceded to be the annual number of automobile fatalities. For 8,621 males known to have been killed in one year there were only a third as many women, or 2,845, in spite of the fact that the male population is only 4 per cent greater than the female.

This chart does not take into consideration the 660,000 Americans who are injured annually by automobiles. Such figures are not available except in certain states, but that boys and girls again make up the bulk of such casualties is indicated by the records of New York state kept for the first nine months of 1925. Here 11,768, or practically one-third of the 33,392 injured, were under fifteen years of age.

PERFECTING PLANS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK

Between five and six hundred meetings will be held over the state of California during the observance of the seventh annual public schools week, April 26 to May 1, according to reports made public by Vaughan MacCaughy, secretary of the state committee having the week's activities in charge. The state committee is particularly pleased with the co-operation that has been given to the movement by the press of the state.

The week originally was celebrated in Masonic lodge rooms, but owing to the increased public interest, last year meetings were held in public halls and school auditoriums, with the public in general invited. The same procedure is being carried out this year, Charles Albert Adams, former Grand Master of Masons of California, being chairman of the general committee.

During the week there will be a notable listing of speakers in different parts of the state, among others being Dr. Rufus B. Von Kleinschmidt, president of the University of Southern California, a national character in educational work; Dr. A. B. Anderson, president of the State Teachers' College at San Francisco; Dr. Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific; State Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Wood; Superintendent of Schools Roy M. Cloud of San Mateo county; Superintendent Fred M. Hunter of Oakland; A. R. Heron, former assistant superintendent of schools of California, and hundreds of other speakers selected in different localities.

The general problem of the public school will be a theme during the week, the activities being especially directed toward bringing the parents into closer touch with the work of the public schools.

Special activities for large community meetings are being carried out in San Francisco, Oakland, Bakersfield, Fresno, Modesto, Stockton, Lodi, Paso Robles, and the large centers in the South, such as Los Angeles, San Diego, Long Beach and Santa Barbara.

Roy W. Cloud, of Redwood City, is a member of the general state committee in charge of the work.

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Many new faces were seen in the congregation at Grace Presbyterian church last Sunday evening, and the attention and interest in the sermon, "The Cry of the Soul," was said by many to be the best yet.

There were eighty-nine at the Sunday school on last Sunday, and the race is growing closer each Sunday and each side will pass Chicago this coming Sunday.

A public reception is being held this Friday evening at the church for the thirty-five new members who came into the church on Easter evening, and others are wanting to join April 25th.

The boys and girls clubs met as usual on Monday and Tuesday afternoon of this week and a fine time was had, the girls serving a splendid lunch at the close of their meeting.

The ladies of the Guild will hold a bake and food sale in the dining room of the church on April 24, and the ladies will appreciate very much the co-operation of the members and friends of the church. Send your supplies early.

The sermon for next Sunday evening will be of peculiar interest to the people of this city at the present time, "A Man's Job and a Man for the Job." You are invited to come and hear it, and if at the close you feel that your time is not profitably spent, we will reimburse you for the time.

We ask the help of the people of this section that we may build a program such as will appeal to the rising generation and to which the people may point with pride.

The pastor has fitted up a study and office in the manse rooms and will be pleased to meet any one who needs counsel and sympathy, assuring you that all who come will find a helping hand.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

COMMUNITY BETTERMENT CAMPAIGN NEXT MONTH

Early next month the California Posts of the American Legion throughout the state are to join in the participation of a "Community Betterment" campaign which is being sponsored by the national American commission of the World war veterans' organization.

Allen B. Bixbie, state commander of the California department of the Legion, has sent forth an appeal to the three hundred odd units of his organization to join with local civic bodies in the observance of the beginning of the community betterment movement.

MORINI ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Ubaldo Morini, who shot and killed Americo Fannucci at Colma on March 1, was acquitted by a jury in Judge George H. Buck's court at Redwood City last Friday.

There was no denying that Morini had slain Fannucci, but it was the old story of the trusted friend who had stolen a man's wife and then paid with his life. Morini owes his freedom principally to the testimony of his 16-year-old daughter Marie, who testified that Fannucci had made an attack upon her while he was a guest at the Morini home. Morini recited how his victim had lured Mrs. Morini from the family circle and how the two had gone to Tiajuana. When the border resort was closed some time ago, they returned and Morini heard they were living in Half Moon Bay.

Driven to rage by constant brooding, Morini set out to look for his wife and the man with whom she had fled. En route to Half Moon Bay, he saw Fannucci emerging from a restaurant in Colma. Morini shot him on the spot and then used the gun to hold the crowd which gathered at bay until Constable S. A. Landini arrived and took him into custody.

It is understood the jury deliberated but seventeen minutes before returning their verdict.

RECALL ELECTION IS SET FOR MAY 15

The election for the recall of Trustees McCaffrey, McNellis and Blank, of South San Francisco, will be held on Saturday, May 15, according to a resolution to that effect introduced by Trustee McCaffrey and unanimously approved by the board of trustees.

The ordinance provides that in case any or all of the above named trustees are recalled that a successor shall be elected to fill the places thus vacated on the board of trustees.

The recall was originally asked in a petition presented Wednesday, November 4, filed by D. W. Ratto. Court actions have carried the case along until the present date. Recently the District Court of Appeals decided the petition to be legally sufficient in form and signed by qualified voters of the city exceeding in number 25 per cent of the entire vote at the last general election, and issued a peremptory writ of mandate commanding the election to be called.

AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERS TO OBSERVE FOREST WEEK

California Posts of the American Legion are to participate in the national observance of Forest week, April 18 to 24, according to plans announced by Charles G. Dunwoody, chairman of the conservation committee of the ex-service men's organization and forestry expert for the California Development Association.

Forest conservation week is an annual event in which the American Legion is co-operating with other national organizations.

"Last year the Legion threw itself into the front line trenches in some of the states where other organizations had failed to function, and material help in the forest conservation movement was given in California, Oregon, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina," Chairman Dunwoody says.

VOLUNTEER FIRE COMPANY FORMED AT HALF MOON BAY

A volunteer fire company has been organized at Half Moon Bay, Frank Fetter, local superintendent of the Great Western Power Company, being named chief by the fire commissioners; William R. Scheffer, manager of the Ocean Shore Canning Company, first assistant; and Jack Gilcrest, assistant cashier of the Bank of Half Moon Bay, second assistant. There was a large number of Half Moon Bay's young men present at the organization meeting who signed applications for membership.

MEMBERS OF LEGION POSTS TO MEET AT WATSONVILLE

A five county conference of American Legion posts is to be held at Watsonville on Sunday, April 18, in which delegates from San Mateo, Santa Cruz, Monterey, Santa Clara and San Benito counties will be present. The conference has been called by Allen B. Bixbie, California department commander, and is to discuss various problems confronting the Legion. It is understood that the matter of membership, Americanization, community and civic activities, publicity and inter-post relations will be freely discussed.

MANY LINERS TO CARRY VETERANS

Embarkation details for the 1927 convention of the American Legion in Paris have been announced by the France convention travel committee of the Legion in the form of a map which has provoked wide comment among the thousands of Legionnaires who anticipate going to France in 1927.

The map tells at a glance how 30,000 veterans of the World war will be loaded aboard twenty-four liners at seven American ports in the greatest peace-time pilgrimage in the history of the world. It also shows exactly how much it will cost for a round trip ticket from the capitals of each of the forty-eight states to the different ports of embarkation assigned the states.

Prepared under the direction of the France convention travel committee, the map involved months of consultation with representatives of the seven steamship lines commissioned to transport the army of veterans back to France and with representatives of all the principal railroads in America.

It shows that from the port of New York the delegations of twenty states will embark for France, approximately 12,000 men, said to be a single passenger embarkation larger than ever before sailed out of New York harbor. These will be carried on the ships of five lines.

The states going out of New York represent a wide belt, stretching across the continent from California and Oregon to New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Montreal is the northernmost port indicated on the map for the embarkation of Legionnaires. From it will sell the delegations of the seven northern states along the Canadian border from Washington to Michigan.

Boston will embark six New England states. From Hampton Roads will go Legionnaires from five middle southern states, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, and the District of Columbia. Charleston, S. C., will be responsible for the embarkation of five southern states, from Arkansas on the west to South Carolina on the east. Florida is the only state which will have the distinction of its own exclusive embarkation port, Florida Legionnaires embarking from Jacksonville. The three southwestern states of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas will board liners for Europe at either Houston or Galveston, Texas, while one of the ships from Texas will call at New Orleans to pick up Louisiana Legionnaires.

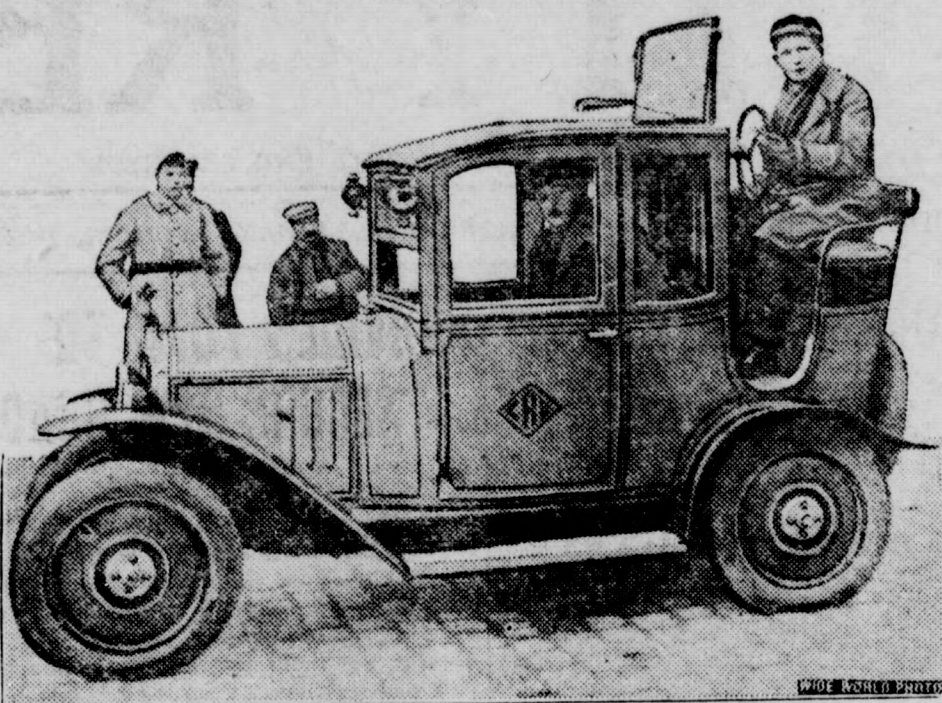

In making the assignments, the committee in charge has made an effort to save Legionnaires as much time and money as possible, according to Bowman Elder, of Indianapolis, the chairman of the committee. In practically every case the port selected is the one most cheaply and quickly reached from the states assigned to it.

"This embarkation information is being announced so far in advance of the convention," Mr. Elder declared, "in order that it may assist Legionnaires who want to go to calculate exactly how much will be required for the trip and how much time will be necessary, so that they may provide both sufficient funds and sufficient vacation in 1927."

According to John J. Wicker, Jr., of Richmond, Va., more than 400 Legion savings clubs have been established in banks all over the country, receiving deposits at the rate of more than $100,000 a week, through which Legionnaires of moderate means expect to save sufficient to make the trip in 1927. It has been estimated that the smallest amount for which the trip can be made is $300, though the minimum steamship rate with accommodation and transportation in France has been calculated at about $175.

"You seem to be awfully sweet with Marvin, lately," remarked Lucille. "Yes," answered Lois, sighing. "If we quarrel he might ask for his ring back, and I can't get it out of pawn till Saturday."—The American Legion News.

OLD HANSOM CAB BACK IN NEW DISGUISE

A one-man taxi, modeled after the once popular one-horse-power hansom cabs, returns in Paris as the latest contribution in automotive power.

SUGGESTIONS TO AID TIRE OWNER

Much Loss Caused Because Motorist and Repairman Fail to Inspect.

The "stretch your rubber campaign" initiated by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, received instant support from leading associations in the automobile trade and among the motoring public. In line with this policy the Chicago Motor club, in a recent bulletin, "More Tire Miles Through Management," makes a number of suggestions that will aid the car owner to combat the high prices which have been established by Great Britain's rubber monopoly.

"Thousands of tires are ruined because the repairer and the motorist fail to inspect the inside of a casing for breaks, nails and pieces of glass," says the bulletin. "Frequently some piece of foreign matter works its way through the shoe, but it cannot be seen by the eye. The repairer should inspect the casing with his fingers.

Inspect the Tread.

"After a tube has been repaired, it is also advisable to inspect the tread for breaks and foreign matter. What-ever the motorist extracts from these breaks in the way of glass, tacks, or nails, is insurance against trouble. It is advisable to fill these breaks with rubber putty to prevent the accumulation of additional breeders of punctures.

"Another source of trouble comes from wheels out of alignment. The motorist who wants to get the greatest possible mileage out of his tires will see that his front wheels are in perfect alignment, he will keep out of car tracks, he will keep his spare tire covered, and he will change his rear tires to the front wheels before the tread is worn down.

Trouble With Nerve

"Still another source of undue tire wear occurs when the novice driver uses his car in traffic. He uses his brakes too much, causing the rubber to slide on the pavement. The motorist who seeks to cut the cost of his tire bills throttles down when he sees that he must come to a stop in traffic, and brings his car to a standing position with little wear on tires or brakes. "If motorists will watch their tire wear as closely as they watch their gas consumption," concludes the bulletin, "millions of dollars would be saved in this country."

Tire Repairs Should Be Made Permanent Cures

Amateur tire patching ruins thousands of automobile tires each year. It is a common practice among automobile owners when receiving a cut or puncture in a tire to insert a patch on the inside of the casing at the point of injury, thinking that the damage is permanently repaired. Such a repair will in time ruin any tire.

It is good practice to apply patches in such cases, but a tire sleeve should always be placed on the outside of the tire opposite the patched portion at the same time. The sleeve serves to bind the tire, hold the torn and injured parts of the fabric in place and prevent further chafing and rupture. The tire sleeve and patch are merely "first aid" appliances and should be removed at the earliest possible moment. It will pay motorists to drive to the nearest repair man immediately after the injury occurs. If allowed to run without repair, every time the wheel makes a revolution the tire quickens its pace toward the scrap heap.

Cleaning a Radiator by Using Lye and Water

A good method of cleaning a radiator is to dissolve a half pound of pure lye in six gallons of water. Drain the water from the radiator and the water jackets and refill with the lye solution. Next run the motor for five or ten minutes and draw off the mixture. Once more fill the radiator with clean water and run the engine for a few moments. To make sure that the lye solution is completely out of the system drain this water and refill once more.

Great care should be used to thoroughly cleanse the cooling system after his treatment has been used.

Did You Know—

That if you have run shy of grease when lubricating the spring bolts with a high pressure gun it is possible to make use of the grease that is still left in the flexible tube? Just put a little engine oil in the gun. This will supply a substance capable of transferring the pressure to the grease in the tube.

That your car may have some little refinements you may have overlooked? One car owner, for instance, discovered that the cap over the front end of the engine shaft could be used as the gas tank cap should the latter be lost. Every car has some little feature of its own—and these are often unknown to the owner.

That it saves straining the closed car body to allow the doors to catch in the semi-closed position, except when driving or parking the car?

Filling Gasoline Tank While Out on the Road

Every tourist and auto driver who has had occasion to pour gasoline into the tank on the road appreciates the difficulty of doing this without the use of a funnel. Still, it is hardly advisable to take a funnel along just for this purpose, as it takes much room and may be bent and broken. However, the motorist usually carries a gallon oilcan to get gas in, and a piece of old inner tube can readily be obtained. Cut a slit in it to fit over the opening of the can, and it will be an easy matter to pour the gas into the tank, as shown in the illustration.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Uninterrupted Supply of Fuel in Carburetor

It sometimes happens on cars where fuel is fed by pressure supplied by the exhaust gases that it becomes increasingly difficult to maintain the pressure at the requisite figure. As a rule pressure does not drop quickly, but seems gradually to ooze away. The first thing to do in a case of this kind is to examine the filler cap of the tank. A leather or rubber gasket is used at this point, and often the rubber becomes spongy or the leather gets hard and caked, or a small bit of foreign matter may have lodged between the cap and its seat. On the other hand, it sometimes occurs that the pressure in the system is built up to a point where the small valve operated by the carburetor float will be unable to restrain the fuel and flooding of the instrument will result. As a rule a pressure of one and a half pounds is ample to insure an uninterrupted supply of fuel in the carburetor.

Danger of Scoring

A car which has been standing idle for several days—long enough for the cylinder walls of the engine to become dry—should have a few spoonfuls of light oil injected into each cylinder by way of the petcocks; the engine should then be turned over a few times. This oil prevents any danger of scoring and assists in getting good compression.

Blackbeard Pays Penalty

CRIMINALS though they were, the average pirate usually had two virtues, at least—bravery and loyalty to his associates. But Capt. Edward Teach, Blackbeard, was not troubled by an excess of the latter. He was an accomplished hand at the double-cross.

Upon one occasion he decided to get rid of his crews and keep all the booty they had accumulated for himself. So he wrecked his own vessel and one of his sloops and on the other he and his closest friends sailed away, leaving their unfortunate fellows marooned on a sandy island.

Then he sailed to North Carolina and with cool effrontery surrendered himself and 20 men to Charles Eden, the governor of North Carolina, who secured a royal pardon for the pirate. They became intimate friends and it seems that the governor and his secretary, Mr. Knight, became partners in crime with the pirate. Soon after Blackbeard's last marriage—his fourth, by the way, he took to the sea again, plundered half a dozen ships in the Bermudas and returned to share the spoils with the governor.

For several months Blackbeard's ships lay in the Pamlico river, robbing every ship that entered and occasionally going ashore to rob the planters. Finally the situation became so unbearable that the colonists appealed to Governor Spotswood of Virginia to rid the coast of the marauder. Spotswood acted promptly. He sent a young lieutenant, Robert Maynard with two sloops to do the job.

On November 21, 1718, Maynard discovered the pirate at the mouth of Ocracoke inlet. Blackbeard had been warned by Secretary Knight, so that all of his crew was on hand to help him defend the new schooner which he had. As Maynard's ships closed in, Blackbeard sprang to the rail and shouted "D—n you for villains, who are you? And from whence come you?" "You may see from our colors we are no pirates," retorted Maynard. "Send a boat aboard!" roared the pirate. "I cannot spare my boat, but I will come aboard of you as I can with my sloop," replied the lieutenant.

Seizing a bottle of whiskey, Blackbeard drank from it and shouted his toast: "Damnation seize my soul if I give you quarter or take any from you!" Maynard's reply to this threat was "I neither ask for, nor will I give you any quarter." After a short and bloody fight at close range, Blackbeard boarded the lieutenant's vessel and it was a hand-to-hand battle between 13 Englishmen and 15 pirates. The two commanders crossed swords and after wounding the pirate in no less than 25 places, Maynard pierced his throat with a lightning-like thrust of his sword. When Maynard sailed into the Chesapeake bay on his return to Virginia the head of Blackbeard was swinging by his long hair from the bowsprit end.

One of the Last of the Pirates

ALTHOUGH the Eighteenth century was the heyday of buccaniers along the American coast, robbing on the high seas was not entirely stamped out in Colonial days, and one of the problems which the new republic faced after the Revolution was the suppression of sporadic outbreaks of piracy. As late as 1831 a pirate was hanged in New York city, and his story is an interesting one.

Charles Gibbs was his name and he was a former boy, born in Rhode Island in 1794. He ran away to sea and enlisted on the American war sloop, Harriet. He saw action in the fight with the British ship Peacock and was one of the crew, commanded by the heroic Lawrence (of "Don't give up the ship" fame) in the fight between the Chesapeake and the Shannon, who was taken to England as a prisoner.

After Gibbs' release from the famous Dartmoor prison, he opened a shop called the "Tin Pot" which soon became a rendezvous for "abandoned women and dissolute fellows." These outcasts soon helped the American drink up all his profits, and he was compelled to go to sea again, this time as a member of the crew of a South American privateer. Gibbs led a mutiny, seized the vessel and turned pirate. He sailed to Cuba and began plundering ships near Havana and slaughtering the crews.

Then with booty totaling more than $30,000 in gold he returned to New York and decided to retire to private life. He next went to Liverpool on a pleasure trip, but fell in with "a designing female," one of the first harpies of trans-Atlantic passenger travel, and lost all of his money. So in 1830 he took to piracy again. He shipped as a seaman on the brig Vineyard, plying between Philadelphia and New Orleans.

On the voyage, in which the Vineyard was carrying a cargo of molasses, cotton and $54,000 in specie, Gibbs again led a mutiny and murdered the captain and the mate. Then the crew set fire to the ship, scuttled it and took to their boats. They landed at Barrow Island where they buried their money in the sand.

Gibbs planned to return later and carry his loot away, but he was captured, taken to New York for trial and there hanged in 1831.

PASSING OF LUTHER BURBANK

There will be sorrow in the hearts of countless thousands who knew him, and millions who knew only of his wonderful contribution to the world, in the passing of Luther Burbank, who died at his home in Santa Rosa last Sunday.

Known and beloved by every nation in the world for his works in nature, Luther Burbank had led a full life, and was probably the best known man in the world.

Luther Burbank was born in Lancaster, Mass., March 7, 1849. His boyhood was spent on a farm, where he learned to love plants. He was educated in Lancaster Academy. He came to Santa Rosa in 1875, where he had since spent the greater part of his time.

Some of his works he leaves as a monument to his memory are the Burbank potato, thornless cactus, Wickson apple, variety of new plums, plumcot, Santa Rosa roses, a multitude of new flowers, peaches, nuts, berries and valuable trees. At the time of his death he had over 1,000 experiments under observation. On his farm at Santa Rosa more than a million plants are raised for testing each year.

While the mourning for the passing of this adopted son of California will be sincere and lasting, yet there is the consolation to his many friends and admirers that the good he did and the wonderful success he had in his chosen field will prove a benefit to the world for all time.

LADY GOVERNOR TALKS

Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming has displayed a lot of good sound sense since she has occupied the position of chief executive of her state, and has not evinced a disposition to unduly seek the limelight.

Therefore, her views on problems of the day, particularly those concerning women, are worthy of consideration. In a recent address to an organization of Girl Scouts, of which she is an honorary member, she said: "I am old-fashioned enough to believe that no career for women is as glorious or satisfying as that which wifehood and motherhood offers, and it is there she fulfills her highest destiny."

But Mrs. Ross also defended the modern girl and declared that modern dress is not only more sensible, but promotes health and grace. She said that the girl of today is fortunate in living in an age when "practically every restraint is removed that could repress a girl's happy spirit or handicap her progress, and she should use her liberty as a means of development into the finest type of womanhood."

It appears that Governor Ross has sanely sensed the situation of the modern girl, and that her conclusions and advice are eminently sound.

PRINCELY GIFT PLANNED

Poor children of Westchester county, New York, will one day have a magnificent school and training institution through the munificent gift promised by John E. Andrus in an announcement made recently on his 85th birthday.

Mr. Andrus is head of a great chemical company at Yonkers, and is estimated to be worth about $100,000,000, of which he proposes to give 45 per cent for the endowment of the institution, to be established after his death.

For many years Mr. Andrus has been the donor of large gifts for worthy purposes. He started life poor and relates that he made his first dollar selling fish to Horace Greely, 75 years ago. Now that he is nearing the end of his career, his thoughts have turned to those who may find it difficult to get a start without a helping hand.

The institution which his millions are to establish will be a splendid monument to his useful life and his thoughtfulness for thousands of children yet unborn.

TALE OF AN ELEPHANT

Sympathetic souls who have been worrying over the impending fate of Tex, the circus elephant, many now breathe easier, for he is not going to be killed at all.

Ever since a press dispatch announced that an elephant attached to a circus in Arkansas had been condemned to death by electrocution, after killing several trainers, the unusual story has been widely published and commented upon. Pictures of the animal on an imagined death platform with wires leading to his ponderous head and legs were also shown. Tex became almost as famous as a criminal as Gerald Chapman.

The humane societies and periodicals began to protest against the manner of his proposed execution, pointing out that a horrible mess might be made of it and the animal thus cruelly tortured. After all the agitation, President Horton of the American Humane Association has received a telegram from a representative of that organization, who investigated the case, saying:

"Killing of elephant story is an advertising scheme. Wherever they take him they announce his viciousness and necessity for killing him, solely to attract crowds. Animal is not dangerous and is well cared for."

We are glad to know this. To tell the truth, we were worried somewhat about old Tex ourselves.

UNSELFISH IDEALISM

The local newspaper in the United States is each year getting on a firmer foundation and becoming more and more useful to its home community, says the Wisconsin State Journal.

It is the home newspaper which boosts the town, year in and year out, which takes the lead in every enterprise which has for its purpose the upbuilding of the community.

We frequently hear it said that the old-time independent spirit of the newspaper is gone, that its editorial policy is now subservient to the business office. Yet this is not true. There is more unselfish idealism in the average local newspaper than in any other business enterprise. It frequently speaks out in that way which it believes will be for the good of the nation and community, regardless of what the consequences may be from a business standpoint.

The local newspaper is the principal booster for the community, and it does its boosting often without hope of material reward. Unfortunately it is the community which neither appreciates or supports its local newspaper.

Jack Dempsey is credited with writing an article on "My Split With Kearns." It is understood that they split some sizeable sums before Jack became too proud to fight.

Henry Ford's penchant for antiques has not as yet impelled him to make any extensive collection of early "small cars."

VIEWS IN BRIEF

By Marcy B. Darnall

Because she chopped her husband's body into 215 separate and distinct pieces, a newspaper declares Alexia Prokofieff, aged 27, "the worst wife in Russia." The dispatch fails to state who counted the pieces.

Before being awarded diplomas in the home economics course at the Michigan State College at East Lansing, the co-eds must eat an appreciable quantity of the food they prepare, as a part of their final examination. Truly an exacting test.

Rev. Ira Landrith, national secretary of Christian Endeavor Societies, advocates the installation of "court-ney booths" in all churches. He wisely observes that "young people must get together in some way, and if the church does not supply the means they will find less desirable surroundings for their love-making."

Inmates of jails in the City of Mexico are to be paraded through the streets as an added humiliation. If that should become the custom in the United States, the sob-sisters would strew their line of march with roses.

Adherents of a queer sect in the mountains of New Mexico torture themselves by walking over cactus and sharp stones during the Easter season as a religious duty. Still some supposedly civilized people among us seem to believe that the Almighty is pleased to see us make ourselves miserable all the time.

While Roy A. McNeil languishes in jail at Phoenix, Arizona, for bigamy, his two wives live happily together in the same house. Which brings to mind someone's immortal remark: "Ain't women funny?"

Lina Cavallieri, former operatic soprano, at the age of 52 is conducting a beauty parlor in Paris with sixty assistants. She retired from the stage with a fortune, and declares she is running her present establishment not to make money, but because she is "interested in women." Despite her age, Lina is still easy to look upon.

It is reported that Turkish men are being hanged for refusing to give up the fez, while the women persist in wearing the traditional scarf and are "getting away with it." The fact that the scarf costs less than the

Colma News Notes

By SYLVIA HAUBRICH FISCHER

Andy Cheregino had his leg broken in an accident one day this week.

Robert and Bert Silicani are making a success of the scavenger business, with the assistance of Colma and Daly City friends.

A number of local people attended the whist party given in Daly City last Wednesday for the benefit of St. Maximus church.

The first picnic of the season will be given in Lovchen Gardens by the Marconi Nest on Sunday, April 25. A large crowd is expected to be present.

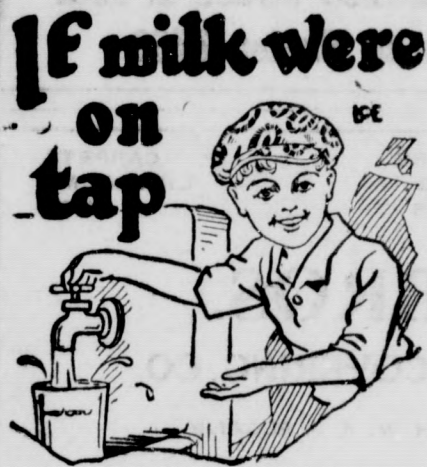

Mrs. Earle Jones, Mrs. Jack Callan and Mrs. Thomas Fahey attended the baseball game between the San Francisco Seals and the Mission Cubs in Recreation Park last Thursday.

The Colma Athletic Club will sponsor a prize masquerade ball on Saturday, April 24. The affair will take place in the Colma Auditorium. Excellent music has been engaged for dancing.

The members of La Fiesta Social Club enjoyed a delightful swimming party at the Crystal Palace Baths on Lombard street, San Francisco, on Friday evening of this week. All the girls are very enthusiastic and plan to have swimming parties several times a month.

The whist party and dance which was given last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Colma Volunteer Fire Department was most successful, a large crowd being present. Dancing to excellent music furnished by the Pompeians, under the leadership of Raymond Batz, lasted until a late hour.

Mrs. B. W. Haubrich and Mrs. S. V. Fischer visited Mrs. E. Bergmann, of San Francisco, last Thursday afternoon.

A most entertaining vaudeville program was presented at the New Colma Theatre last Sunday, besides two feature pictures.

Roy Franzola came home from St. Luke's hospital on Wednesday of this week and is progressing nicely under the care of Dr. Oschner.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fahey, Mrs. Jack Callan, Misses Gladys Callan and Ida Silicani spent last Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denman, of San Pedro.

Mrs. Hailor, Mrs. McCuen, Miss Dorothy McCuen, George Hailor, of Crocker Tract, Mrs. B. W. Haubrich and Bessie Haubrich visited Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fischer, of Castle street, last Wednesday evening.

The members of the Colma Volunteer Fire Department and their friends have planned a picnic to be held at Rockaway Beach on Sunday, April 25. Races and games will be held and dancing will be enjoyed at Rockaway Inn.

A booster whist party and dance is being planned by the officers of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, under the direction of President Margaret MacDonald. The affair will be held in Masonic Hall, Daly City, on Wednesday, May 5.

Last Friday evening Miss Margaret Varni of Paris street, San Francisco, entertained the members of La Fiesta Social Club at her home. Following the business meeting a delicious spread was enjoyed by the girls, and radio music, singing and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour. Plans were made for a truck ride to Congress Springs to be held in the near future. Misses Collista Dalton and Sarah Battaini will be hostesses at the next meeting. Misses Margaret Varni, Elsie Fahey, Tessie O'Connor, Grace Johnston, Margie O'Connor and Mrs. Lorraine Wall, club members, recently attended the comedy "U Don't Understand," presented at the President Theatre by Henry Duffy's players.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Merlo, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barsi, Miss Louise Merlo and Nello Barsi, of Vale street, and Al Zanetti, of South San Francisco, attended the wedding of Miss Blanche Merlo, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Merlo, of San Francisco, to Mr. John Bachigalupi, of San Francisco, at the church of Sts. Peter and Paul last Sunday. The bride was beautifully gowned in white chiffon and wore a net veil. She carried a shower bouquet of St. Joseph lilies, roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Linda Celli, wore a pink dress and carried pink roses. Miss Evelyn Barberi, the flower girl, wore orchid crepe and carried baby roses. Mr. Andrew Bachigalupi was the best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple will reside in Colma after the honeymoon, which is being spent in Stockholm.

Spaniards Put Olive Tree to Many Uses

Centuries of experimentation have taught Spaniards how to utilize to the full that wonderful plant, the olive tree. Its cultivation is among the most remunerative branches of agriculture in the peninsula. It would be a mistake to think that only oil comes from the olive tree. Indeed nothing is wasted. A small percentage of the fruit is pickled in brine; the greater part is crushed for oil. The coarser oil serves for soap making and as cake-foam for cattle. Pulverized olive stones make the best fuel for the braziers in every Spanish household. The top branches, cut when the trees are pruned, are eaten green by sheep and goats. The limbs and roots furnish firewood. Most "grandfather chairs" in country homesteads are made from olive wood, which has a rich yellow color, a beautiful dark grain and takes a high polish. It is calculated that the use of hydraulic presses increased the yield of oil by 1 per cent, which, on the total value of the Spanish crop, means many million pesetas. But in some districts olive crushing is still done by the primitive method of suspending by a leather belt attached to a staple in the wall a "peon," whose feet, slipping on the greasy surface of a great granite ball, make it revolve and crush evil-smelling oil out of evil-looking, brown, half rotten fruit.

Belief That Vikings Gave Name to London

The origin of the name of London has puzzled many historians. Londinium is first mentioned by Tacitus, a Roman author, in A. D. 61. He says it is "a place greatly celebrated for the number of its merchants and the abundance of its supplies." There are many proofs in English and Swedish museums of the intimate intercourse between England and Scandinavia in early times, an intercourse that has probably gone on uninterruptedly for about 6,000 years. It may be conjectured that early Vikings from the south of Sweden ventured across the water and sailed up the mouth of the Thames and found a grove, which in Swedish is "lund," on the banks of the river, where later on the Roman Londinium arose. The invaders called the place "Lund," from the Scandinavian "offen-lund," or sacred grove, says a writer in Notes and Queries. The name was later corrupted into "Lond."

Gossamer Gowns

The weaving of gowns from gossamer, which is now so much in evidence, was suggested in the Eighteenth century. Le Bon of Languedoc prepared a "silk" from spiders, which was afterwards woven into gloves and stockings. Louis XIV of France, possessed a coat made of cobweb, and in 1877 the Empress of Brazil presented Queen Victoria with a dress composed entirely of cobwebs which, for fineness of texture and beauty of fabric, surpassed the most valuable silk. Nevertheless, cobweb "silk" is not likely to become a commercial proposition, for the voracious spider eats every day 27 times its own weight of insect food, which is, of course, expensive, and produces in return only half a grain of "silk."

Thermometer for Fishermen

The wise fisherman of the future will test the temperature of the water in which he casts his lines. The biological board of Canada, after an extensive survey, has found that haddock and cod especially are very particular about temperature, says Popular Science Monthly. The cod will not stay where the water is freezing, and for him 50 degrees is unbearably hot. Between 40 and 45 degrees is about right, and if fishermen will fish where such temperature prevails it is claimed they can scoop cod up wholesale. Haddock prefer water about five degrees warmer.

The board urges fishermen to use deep-sea thermometers and not waste time where there are no fish.

North and South on Maps

In geographical drawing, the north is always drawn as being up and the south down. It is a practice established merely by long custom. No scientific principle or orientation makes this arrangement essential. The majority of early geographers adopted this scheme and it was found convenient for those who came later to follow it. A few old maps have the east at the top of the page and west at the bottom, but such cases are rare.

Where She Ranked

"Am I the only woman you ever loved?" "Oh, no," he answered, promptly; "you are the sixth."
"The sixth?" she exclaimed, suddenly relieving his shoulder of the weight of her head.
"Yes," he said, coldly, "there were five before you—my mother, an aunt, and three sisters."
And thereafter she endeavored to be more specific when she asked questions.

Phone Pests in Mexico

Parrots and monkeys are causing the telephone company in parts of Mexico great trouble and expense. After dark large numbers of these tree dwellers appropriate the wires that traverse the thinly settled parts of the country and play on them to such an extent that the service is badly crippled at times. Their weight has caused some lines to snap, with the result that miles of heavier wire have had to be strung.

Reduce by Breathing, Says French Doctor

Bed rest instead of physical exercise, and deep exhaling from the lungs, in addition to the usual nonfattening diet, are prescribed as a cure for obesity by Dr. G. Leven, general secretary of the Therapeutic society of Paris.

Doctor Leven teaches his patients to breathe out so hard that they bend the flame of a candle and to inhale only very slightly. The breathing can be done lying in bed, sitting up or standing erect. Series of five exhalations are repeated every half hour fifteen to twenty times a day. One patient lost fifteen pounds in twenty days and another sixty pounds in the course of eight months.

When a person overeats, Doctor Leven believes, the solar plexus is irritated and this disturbs the functioning of those cerebral centers that regulate the destruction of fat. Other conditions may also cause this disturbance. The course of treatment prescribed is claimed to counteract the effect.

Nuts and Milk Chief Materials for Buttons

An older button than that of mother of pearl was the so-called horn button, which was really hoof. The hoofs of cattle were boiled and cut up into slices and then pressed into buttons by means of metal dies.

At the present time the two most widely used materials for buttons are nuts and milk. The Corozo nut is the favorite missile of the monkeys in certain riverside regions of Central and South America, and its kernel of vegetable ivory can be turned upon a lathe, cut to any shape, and dyed to almost any color. Its usefulness to the modern button maker is only equaled by that of sour milk. Milk from which all the cream has been separated is soured either naturally or by means of rennet or some acid, and converted into erinoid or galalith, from which immense numbers of fancy buttons are made.

Germ "Boom"

In London you can get a bargain in germs. A quarter of a dollar will buy millions, and you can have your choice of more than 2,000 kinds.

There has been a great demand for germs lately from laboratories and hospitals, according to Popular Science Monthly, and workers in the Lister Institute are kept busy feeding, raising and bottling them to ship to the far corners of the earth.

Many of the germs are cranky boarders, and the chef has to make special dishes for them. A favorite food is beef tea, but others will touch only dishes in which eggs are used. Toppers in the assembly demand alcohol in their foods.

Some of the germs demand a lot of coddling. The "flu" germ, for instance, has to be kept at a certain even temperature in an incubator night and day lest it catch cold and die.

Tribute to the Horse

Oh horse, you are a wonderful thing; no buttons to push; no horns to honk; you start yourself; no clutch to slip; no spark to miss; no gears to strip; no license buying every year with plates to screw on front and rear; no gas bills climbing up each day, stealing the joy of life away; no speed cops chugging in your rear, yelling summons in your ear. Your inner tubes are all O. K., and, thank the Lord, they stay that way. Your spark plugs never miss and fuss; your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile; your body never changes style; your wants are few and easy met; you've something on the auto yet.—St. Croix Courier.

Historic Toys

The 2,000-year-old armlet found on Selsey beach and used by children as a collar for the cat before the discovery of its real nature gained it a place in the British museum, recalls another valuable plaything. It was in 1897 that a Dutch farmer obtained possession of a bright stone with which some Boer children were amusing themselves. This "toy," which eventually sold for £500, after exhibition in Paris, brought the discovery of the diamond fields, round which so much of the recent history of South Africa has centered.—London Times.

Making Her Say It

The prettiest girl sighed. All through the fox-trot her partner had been relating "curious facts" to her about everything under the sun, from pigs to parliament, till she was bored almost to tears. Now he was on the subject of heredity.
"It's a curious fact," he remarked, "but my brother, who was born on the same day of the year as I was, but who's three years older, is my exact opposite in every respect. Do you know my brother?"
"No," murmured the girl, "but I should like to."

Girl's Essay on Men

From a schoolgirl's composition: "There are three kinds of men—husbands, bachelors and widowers. An eligible bachelor is a mass of obstinacy surrounded by suspicious. Husbands are of three varieties—prizes, surprises and consolation prizes. A widower is a man someone has rescued as he goes down for the third time. Making a husband of a bachelor is one of the highest plastic arts known to civilization. It requires science, sculpture, common sense and faith, hope and charity, especially charity."—Exchange.

MUSIC WEEK, MAY 2-8

A Maytime festival, with all the elaborate accompaniment of folk dances, old songs and pagentry that were part of the celebration of May day in Merrie England, will be given on May 8, at the Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, as a part of the Music Week festivities. One hundred children, under the direction of Miss Ida Wyatt, in co-operation with Phillip Sapiro, director of the municipal band, will take part in the matinee, which promises to be one of the most colorful events of the week.

Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Girl Reserves and other young peoples' organizations, will be the special guests of the occasion which, in common with the rest of the programs, will be open to the public without charge.

Congress

No. 1

I went to Washington the other day. I visited "The House of Representatives," they were in session. What I mean by being in session, the tax bill was up for debate and they were arguing on "Better Golf courses for the medium salaried man." I suppose if the World Court bill had been up, they would have been talking on "Shall America park oblong or parallel."

Well, then I went over to the Senate. They had adjourned, so I felt that America was not having such a bad day at that. We were only 50 percent inefficient THAT DAY.

You know we all joke and kid about Congress, but we can't improve on them. No matter who we elect, he is just as bad as the one he replaced. So with all their faults we love 'em. They are as good as the people who vote to put them there, and they are 10 times better than the ones who don't vote at all. They are like "Bull" Durham, they are not perfect, but they are the best in their line.

Raven Not Altogether

Deserving of Bad Name

Two ravens, one of which has taken our continental name, American, and the other which has taken the more specific geographic name of the northern raven, are both interesting, croaky and not altogether unbecoming, for in certain lights their plumage is lustrous.

The American raven is smaller than its more northern cousin. It is a resident of the far western United States. It is a mountain dweller, although it disdains not to descend to the valleys if man is absent therefrom. The raven does not like man and the reason is not far to seek. Man does not like the raven, holding it with the crow its cousin once or twice removed, as being a bird that is better dead.

The diet of the American raven, according to Florence Merriam Bailey, who knows the western bird well, consists "principally of carrion, dead fish and frogs, varied with rodents, muskies, grasshoppers, large black crickets and worms." This collection of food is not altogether a delectable one from the human appetite standpoint, but the raven deserves well of man for making its diet what it is.

Old Scriptural Names

Seem to Have Passed

A writer calls attention to the interesting names found in certain sections, such as the village home of his childhood days where the names were almost entirely scriptural, so there were Matthew, Mark, etc., Rhoda, Sarah, Joseph, Benjamin, etc. The three sons of our blacksmith were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the latter being shortened to Bandy. These passed, and their place was taken by family names—Charles, William, Henry, etc. The Twentieth century brought a hideous change in the direction of "gentility" with such horrors as Gladys, Doris, Daphne, Sydney, Herbert ("Bert" or "ErB"). He says: "I have known a girl with the beautiful name of Irene often summoned hilariously as 'Come on, young Rene,' while a child by the name of Audrey was surprised when I told her that her name was a variant of Etheldreda.—London Mail.

High University Honor

When LL. D. is conferred upon a man it indicates that he has a profound knowledge of the laws of his profession, or that department of knowledge in which he is working. LL. D. is the oldest, highest and most valuable university degree and is conferred only on such as have made themselves very eminent by their skill, learning and original work. It is seldom conferred before the recipient is fifty years of age. LL. D. is usually conferred as an honorary degree, but Shurtleff, Chicago, and McGill propose to confer it upon the completion of required work and examinations in any of the higher departments of knowledge. LL. D. is sometimes conferred as a third degree in line with LL. B. and LL. M. with work in law schools.

Treating the Thermometer

In a certain village the squire gave a thermometer to every cottager, and carefully explained its use.

Soon after their arrival a district visitor entered one house, where a new thermometer hung in the middle of the room. The visitor complimented the owner, and inquired if she remembered the instructions.

"Ay, that I do," was the reply. "I 'angs 'un there, and I watches 'un until he gets above 60."

"Quite right, Mrs. Brown," said the visitor. "And what do you do when it goes above 60?"

"Why, I takes 'un down and puts 'un out in the garden and cools 'un down a bit!"—Weekly Scotsman.

Feet Shod With Hobnails

The skin on the foot of a native Binghi in Australia is the thickest found on any human being, according to "Jim Crow," writing to the Sydney Bulletin.

"One day an old Binghi came to me complaining he had sore feet, and I saw that their soles were badly cracked. As a poor joke I handed him a bag containing a dozen hobnails, and told him how they were used. He sat down, stuck them into his feet and marched off. Three weeks later I asked him how his feet were. He proudly exhibited them—the hobnails were still in the flesh."

Dresses on Exhibition

The dresses worn by wives of Presidents at inaugurations from Martha Washington to and including both Mrs. Wilsons, are preserved on exhibit at Smithsonian Institution, Washington. The women say the gown of Dolly Madison is the prettiest, the most artistic, made of heavily brocade white silk, embroidered in bouquets of flowers in natural colors, sweeping floor length, tiny waist, puffed sleeves, richly simple, it surpasses all the others. Anyway that is what a Kansas woman tells Ewing Herbert, says Capper's Weekly.

Legendary Spanish Hero

Bernardo del Carpio was a celebrated semi-mythical Spanish hero of the Ninth century, who signalled himself by his deeds of daring in the wars against the Moors. He is a favorite hero in the old Spanish ballads and romances, and his exploits form the subject of several dramas by Lope de Vega. According to tradition, he defeated the famous Roland at Roncesvalles. Finding him invulnerable, Bernardo lifted him in his arms and squeezed him to death, as Hercules did the giant Antaeus.—Exchange.

RADIO

Three-Tube Receiver Unexcelled for Distance, Volume and Tone. Square Wound Toroidal Coils Give the Circuit Selectivity.

Regeneration is one of the most wonderful things of radio, without which the entire broadcasting situation would not have reached its present day perfection. But, the regenerative receiver, as such, has almost become extinct because of its radiating qualities which spoil general reception for miles around, and because it is not selective enough to tune through a number of nearby broadcasting stations.

Regeneration is a great help to any radio set. When used in a sharp tuning receiver it will add sufficient volume to equal a nonregenerative set, using a greater number of tubes. The circuit shown here was devised by engineers of the All-American radio corporation to produce a three-tube set, employing regeneration and radio frequency amplification, combined. The radio frequency makes it a distance getter and prevents radiation, and the regeneration produces the volume and sensitiveness required to operate satisfactorily under 1926 conditions.

Make Sharper Tuning Set.

Toroidal coils make this combination possible, by eliminating interstage coupling. The magnetic field of the transformers is confined in the coils. The toroid coils also prevent the pick-up of local stations by the coils themselves and make a much sharper tuning set. The new All-American shielded straight line frequency condensers are recommended to prevent crowding of the stations on the lower waves.

Only one stage of audio frequency is provided, and if this be constructed with one of the laboratory model lyric transformers, reproduction of music and speech will be as clear and undistorted as on a one tube set.

The regenerative feature is controlled by a small variable condenser of approximately .00015 mfd. that permits the tubes to be brought gradually up to the point of oscillation, or "hot spot," where reception is best.

The Parts Needed.

Few parts are needed, and the set can be assembled with a 7 by 18 or 21-inch panel and cabinet, without crowding. Two controls, an ideal system of tuning a radio set, are used. To construct the receiver you will need the following list of parts:

One toroid coupler, type T1 (L1).
One toroid coil, type T2 (L2).
One universal coupler, type R 140 (L3).
Two straight line frequency condensers, type C35 (C1 and 2).
One variable condenser, approximately .00015 mfd. capacity (C3).
One audio transformer, type R12 (AFT 1).
One large fixed condenser, 0.5 to 1.0 mfd.

Three sockets.
One grid leak.
One .00025 mfd. grid condenser.
One 6 ohm rheostat.
Binding posts, wire, screws, etc.

The UV199 or C299 type of tubes may be used if the rheostat is 10 to 15 ohms. One rheostat controls the three tubes and it is not advantageous to provide a separate rheostat for each tube. The 45-volt "B" battery binding post is for the detector tube, which should not be of the regular UV200 or C300 type, unless the voltage is lowered to 22½ volts.

FOREFATHERS OF RADIO

By GEORGE LEWIS
of The Crosley Radio Corporation.

No one had succeeded in demonstrating how Hertz' discoveries could be made the basis of a practical system. The waves created by Hertz' coil devoted his attention to the problem. The waves created by Hertz' crude apparatus could only be detected at short distances from the apparatus. It was necessary that two things be done before Hertz' methods could be adapted to practical wireless telegraphy: First, it was essential to devise some more powerful means of propagating the waves, and, second, a better detecting device than the simple wire loop and spark gap that he had used had to be worked out. Marconi solved both of these problems.

G. Marconi.

Very early in his experiments, Marconi made the discovery that if one electrical terminal of the transmitting or receiving apparatus were connected to the earth and the other end connected to a metal plate or wire suspended high in the air, the range over which transmission and reception could be accomplished would be multiplied many times. Marconi's earth connection is known today as the "ground," and his suspended wire or plate is what we know as an "aerial" or "antenna."

In the line of detecting devices he improved an instrument first thought of by Branly, and known as the "coherer." This instrument is a relay, enabling the feeble vibrating electric current set up in the receiving circuit by the radio waves to release current from a local battery. By means of these improvements, Marconi was able to conduct many successful demonstrations of practical wireless telegraphy in England. In 1898, permanent stations were established for communication between Alum bay and Bournemouth, England, a distance of 14½ miles. A year later communication was maintained between England and France.

Farmers Great Users of Radio, Report Discloses

Radio for farm use could receive no better recommendation than the statistics found in the annual report of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine. He tells that a survey made by county agents in 1923 indicated that there were about 145,000 radio sets on farms throughout the country. In 1924 the estimated number of sets jumped to 365,000 and in 1925 to 553,000.

Radio sets per county increased from 51 in 1923 to 204 in 1925, an increase of 300 per cent. What more evidence could one wish to prove that farm folks appreciate the broadcasting service now available? Twenty-four agricultural colleges maintain radio broadcasting stations. They cooperate with the United States Department of Agriculture in broadcasting weather, crops and market reports. Several hundred stations regularly obtain information for broadcasting from the United States Department of Agriculture.

FOR THE NOTE BOOK

Put a fresh grid leak in the set about once a year.

The best solder is made of equal parts of tin and lead.

Fading is much less troublesome in daylight than at night.

Hydrometers are not used with nickel-iron storage batteries.

The ground is one of the most important portions of the radio circuit.

Crystal detectors operate as long as the detector is in good condition.

Excessive resin from solder can be removed with alcohol and a soft cloth.

Howling of a set may be due to filament too high, over-regeneration, improper wiring, or instruments crowded.

A condenser connected in series with an aerial will reduce the wave length of the aerial. One connected in parallel will raise the wave length.

A loud speaker is as delicate as the human ear.

Antenna insulators should be cleaned every six months.

Use a "C" battery to reduce the "B" battery consumption.

Static noises are worst in a set on the approach of a storm area.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE HOG DEER

"All my life I will have a sorrow," said the Hog Deer.

"And all my life I have had a sorrow. I have always had it because I was born with it, and I will never lose it, and so I will die with it."

"Ah, sad is my life, sad, sad, indeed."

"Whatever has got into you?" asked the Sinaloa White-Tailed Deer.

"I have nothing in me," said the Hog Deer.

"That is, I haven't had a thing in me since breakfast time."

"I should have something in me before long, though."

"I am feeling a bit empty. But oh dear, oh dear, if I say that, everyone will remark:

"Just like your old namesake."

"Mercy, gracious me, life is truly sad!"

And the Hog Deer wept a tear from each of his two beautiful brown eyes as he gazed at the Sinaloa White-Tailed Deer in the next yard.

Now the Sinaloa White-Tailed Deer had come from South America and was very delicate.

His tail was of white and his antlers or horns were very small.

His cousin, the northern White-Tailed Deer was very much stronger.

"Tell me what is the trouble with you," begged the Sinaloa White-Tailed Deer, named Whitey for short.

"When I said you must have got something into you, I didn't mean food, but some sort of a sad thought."

"That's it," said the Hog Deer. "I have a sad thought. Yes, I've a sad thought in my mind."

"I will give you my tale. Here it is."

"Tall, tall, why are you going to give me your tail? I have my white one, thanks."

"It will really do nicely."

"I don't need another. I didn't know you'd be able to spare it."

"But even if you can, I really do not want it."

"Oh, how many creatures are always getting mixed up about these two words that sound alike.

"I meant the kind of tale which is a story. That is the kind I am going to give you."

"Oh," said Whitey, "I understand now."

"So please continue. For the moment I was startled."

"I will tell you now."

"They call me the Hog Deer."

"I am small and dainty and I have nothing about me which is like a hog."

"I am not greedy."

"I am supposed to be very pretty, my long antlers are well-shaped with six handsome points."

"In the summer I often have beautiful spots with which to adorn myself, though often I don't bother about them."

"We behave well both in India where our home is, and in the zoo where we are sometimes to be found."

"But I'm not like a hog, and there is no reason for my name."

"It's a cruel injustice."

"And if I'm hungry I'm so afraid they'll think I have a pigish nature."

"Oh dear, to be called a hog and yet to be sweet and unselfish!"

"Cheer up," said Whitey, "for the keeper tells everyone he can that your name means nothing at all, nothing at all."

And the Hog Deer felt happier.

MIDDLE AGE BRINGS NEW INTERESTS

For Women in Good Health

MRS. HARVEY TUCKER
408 WALKER STREET, SHELBYVILLE, IND.

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be"

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

"I have been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sensitive Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. HARVEY TUCKER, 408 Walker St., Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. JENNIE BOLLEMAN, 516 Smith St., West Hoboken, N. J.

Gibson, Dam Builder

A young English engineer who has good reason to feel proud of himself is John W. Gibson, the man who was mainly responsible for the building of the great Senar dam, in Egypt, the largest dam in the world. Mr. Gibson, who is not much over thirty, is very modest. Before he went to Egypt he helped to build the new Queen Mary reservoir, the largest work of its kind in Great Britain. He also constructed some of the largest docks in the United Kingdom.

Serviceable Hairpin

A suburban trolley at Pittsfield whose occupants were mostly high-school pupils en route home, became stalled from a burned-out fuse. The motorman asked if any one happened to have a piece of wire. The boy passengers searched their pockets in vain and the prospect looked pretty dark until an old-fashioned maid donated two hairpins and soon the car was speeding merrily along.—Boston Globe.

All officers of the parlor are aiding Mrs. McDonald in making arrangements for this affair and many unusual attractions will feature the game. All are invited to be present. Dancing will take place after the whist.

ACCIDENTS ON HIGHWAY SHOW BIG DECREASE

A check-up of available records shows that for the first three months of 1926 there have been fewer automobile accidents and less deaths in highway accidents in San Mateo county than in almost any county in California, taking into consideration the density of traffic in this district.

Credit for the great decrease in accidents, fatal and otherwise, is given Captain James Logan and members of the San Mateo county traffic squad, who have charge of the work of patrolling the peninsula highways.

"We have found that through proper co-operation we can gain far better results," says Captain Logan, "and in this respect we have tried to co-ordinate our work with the work of the various municipal police departments, and the result has been especially gratifying."

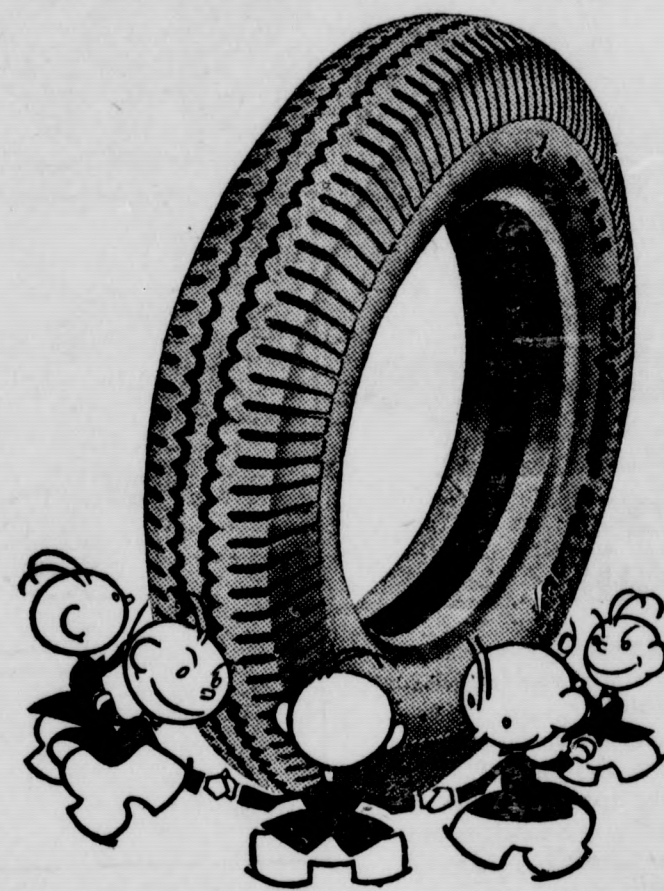

"The members of the San Mateo county traffic squad have concentrated their efforts upon the proper regulation of traffic on the highways, rather than by trying to trap motorists into arrest. At the same time, as the justice court records will show, we have made a great number of arrests. All of these facts must be taken into consideration in accounting for the great decrease in the number of accidents on the highways of San Mateo county."

MYSTERY DEATH BELIEVED RESULT OF BOOZE RUNNING

The body of an unidentified man was found on the Butler road, near the site of the old Butler brickyard pier, South San Francisco, Thursday morning, the discovery being made by a dairyman. The body had been perforated by fourteen bullets and bore the marks of a severe beating before death. Officers immediately launched an investigation, and it is their belief that the man was the victim of rum runners or hijackers. There was an exceedingly high tide the night before and it is thought that booze was landed on the abandoned brickyard pier. It is believed the man was either a hijacker or a bootlegger, that he quarreled with his assailants, was hit over the head with a blunt instrument, thrown beside the road and riddled with bullets.

Approve Gasoline Tax Initiative
Thirty-seven county boards of supervisors have approved the proposed initiative measure to increase the gasoline tax one cent to provide funds for new state highway construction, according to an announcement made by C. W. Heyer, president of the County Supervisors' Association of California. To date only six counties have raised any objection to the measure, it is claimed, while fifteen counties have not yet taken official action on the proposal.

LOW PRICED TRANSMITTERS

The first thing is to secure a license to operate a sending station. While studying for this the set may be built. However, do not "try out" the set for the shortest time without a license.

In order to secure a transmitting license, it is necessary to be able to send and receive ten words a minute. This test is usually over a period of five minutes. Receiving is far harder than transmitting. The necessity for this test is so that any time an S. O. S. is sent all transmitters will recognize it and get off the air. Besides this handling of the code, a knowledge of the theory and operation of transmitters is necessary. Any good radio book will give this. Balantine's "Radio for Amateurs" is recommended.
